Our Catholic friends have just completed sufficiently to be tenable. by far the largest and handsomest church in our city. It is 120 feet in length, 54 feet in width, walls 33 feet in height and roof 56. The spire, when finished, will be 132 1-2 feet high. The building will seat about 900 persons, or nearly twice as many as any other church in Lexington. An immense audience thronged the spacious edifice, last Sunday, to witness its dedication to the service of the Most High. The Hibernian Societies attended in full regalia, with their handsome banners, and s long array of young girls in costumes of pure white, beightened the inter est and beauty of the procession

At half past 10 o'clock, soleme high mass was celebrated, in the presence of Right Reverend Bishot P. J. Ryan, by Rev. P. P. Brady, of St. Louis, assisted by Rev. W. F. FIRST DAY. Tuesday morning opened bright and pleasant. The grounds of Lafayette Ag-ricultural and Mechanical Association had been thoroughly cleaned, and buildings, booths, amphithestre and seats put perfect order. The attendance is never very large the first day, but was as good bles and domestic fabrics was very credi-able, though not large. Many pretty and tasteful specimens of the handlwork of Lafayette's thrifty housewives adorned the grounds; embroidery, crocheting, slik, worsted and cotton quilts, carpets, linseys, blankets and a hundred other products of busy and skillful fingers, dangled in infinite variety and protusion on every hand. George L. Trail, the most successful vegetable raiser in this part of the country, had a wonderful display of everything that a kitchen garden delights in, and of course took the premium, as he always does. He has a pleasant little habit of, every year, presenting the Caucasian office his whole time, as usual, to overwhelm us with a wagon-load of red-ribboned samples of La-fayette county's luxuriant growth; but laid him and, by hook or by crook, vi et armis et greenbackis, gobbled the whole load. Fred. Neet bore off some of the vegetable ribbons. Rufus McCormack too

The display of fruits was fine, telling little of drouth or hoppergrasses. David Hixon, of famous Plum Hill Farm. Ray county, a staunch friend of the Caucasian exhibited an immense variety of apples pears, peaches, plums and other lusciou offspring of the orchard. We are indebt ed to him for the premium apples, with their red ribbons floating proudly above them. W. J. Ferguson, of the Mayview region, showed some 35 varieties of ap-ples; and E. W. #### ERRORS CORRECTED.

MARLIN, Mo., Sept. 16, 1874.
EDITOR LEXINGTON CAUCASIAN—Sir: I write the following for publication, in your columns, us reply to an article published by you, entitled
"Prescher Lust." I quote from the article: "A young friend, who passed through town Thursday night, on his way to Failon, gave us some dark hints of clerical irregularities near home. He says that, last Sinday night, a Rev. Mr. Johnson, of the Bapitst church, who has recently been preaching in the Wellington and Texas Prairie regions, made his appearance at Columbus, in Johnson county, in a state of great perturbation. He said he had been holding a debais with a Campbellite preacher somewhere above Wellington, and he had so exasperated the denomination of his opponent that they had organized a mob to hang him. He was fleeling for his life from a body of religionsits defeated in theological arguments, and he pushed on to Warrensburg. Now, Mr. Edilor, an attempt is made in the showe to slander me, and I hereby emphatically assert that every syllable of the above statement is absolutely lake, and I challenge the proof. But the shawful falsehood continues: "He had searedly got out of sight, until reports began to come thick and fast, that he had been guilty of Beecheriam, &c., &c., &c. 'This is also a beinous falsehood or 'Herecheriam,' will be sent you for publication shortly. Certificate some present the company of the Baptit church at Columbus one year, and debated with your friends, good Campbellies brethren, during the time. I wander if he remembers that I came very near being mobbed then, became of my opponents 'defeat in theological discussion'.'
